TR Register News

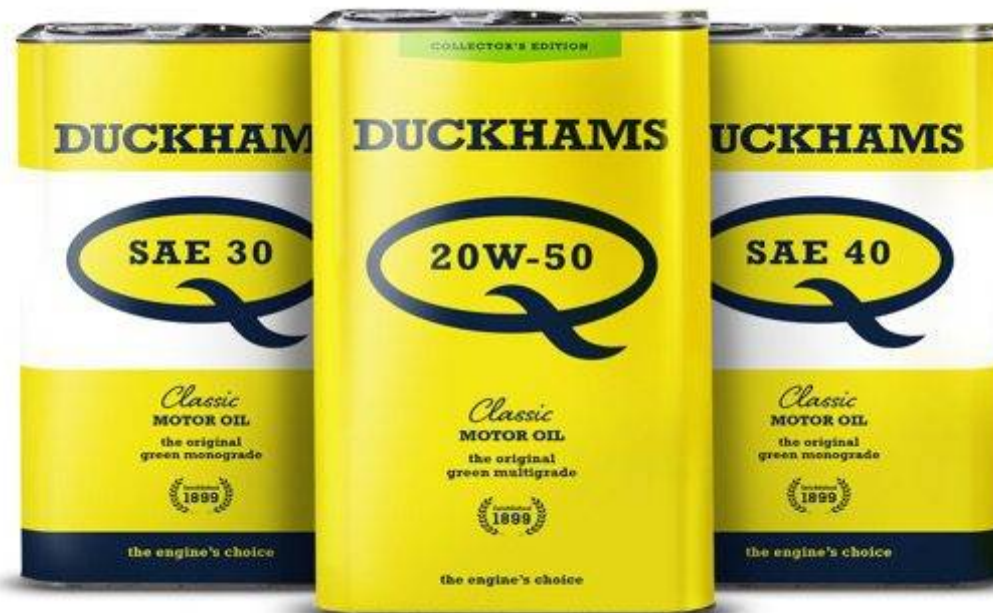

MOT exemptions, Q-plates, modifications from standard and vehicle history. It has been a turbulent time for us TR enthusiasts in what seems to be one government announcement after another of late and it seems the crackdown on the classic car owner has well and truly begun.

Kennet Valley TR Group member Alastair Flack and his co-driver Mick Starkey escaped unharmed when their car overturned in the Jersey Rally, the car barrel-rolled twice when their V8 Triumph TR7 hit a bank at Rue de Pignon. Race organisers believe the car slid on chestnuts, and oil left from a previous crash at the same spot

THE GREEN HUE - IT'S BACK!

Hands up those who remember shops closed Sunday, last orders a good hour earlier and of course that very distinguished oil container called ????

Duckhams, the much loved oil brand, known around the world for its distinctive green hue has been inextricably linked to British motoring heritage since 1899. Duckhams invented Europe's first ever Multigrade oil, Duckhams Q in 1951, an advancement that changed the face of automotive lubricants forever. Now, in 2017 the company will make its long awaited return.

It's Christmas ☺
